

Dear Customer,

After two-decades of success and growth meeting federal drug testing needs of Alaskan businesses, WorkSafe is being acquired by Beacon Occupational Health and Safety Services. WorkSafe and Beacon see this union as a way to better serve you, our customer.

Over the years, WorkSafe has grown from a small start-up to Alaska's largest and most experienced drug testing company. The NANA-owned company provides more than 55,000 drug tests for more than 2500 Alaskan businesses.

Beacon was established in 1999 and has expanded to 170 employees providing drug and alcohol testing, occupational health, family medicine, remote medical clinics, industrial hygiene, training, safety consulting and safety staffing throughout Alaska and the lower 48. Beacon's goal is to provide a safer, healthier environment for a clientele that includes Alaska businesses and state, municipal and federal governments.

The WorkSafe name will continue under Beacon and we are pleased that WorkSafe's employees will be offered the opportunity to continue in their jobs as Beacon employees. The fact that the WorkSafe team will stay together means a smoother transition and benefits all involved parties. The agreement is a win-win for Beacon, WorkSafe and its employees, and our valued customers.

It is our sincere intent and commitment that any changes are seamless and that you will continue to receive the great level service that WorkSafe began. WorkSafe President Matthew Fagnani will remain available to the Beacon team to help assure a smooth transition.

If you have any questions or concerns about the transition process or any potential changes please do not hesitate to contact your WorkSafe or Beacon clients services representative or you can contact Beacon's Vice President Mark Hysten at (907)-375-4319 or Matthew Fagnani at (907)-729-5501.

With gratitude to our employees and our clients, we are looking forward to the future.

Sincerely,

Matthew T. Fagnani, C-SAPA-CI
